Parador File Protection PE (PE) is the ONLY prevention software that will prevent "VIRAL ATTACKS" when a virus is already active on your system. Parador PE will cause a "FAIL SAFE" condition on a program if that program tries to access your computer "directly" through any file operations. If the file system already contains a virus and Parador detects the attempt to access a particular file, it will "FAIL SAFE" the program if it is not recognized as an "official PARADOR" file type. The only way that a virus active on the system can cause damage to your file system is by the virus manually triggering an attempt to access your file system. Parador PE will prevent this from happening by putting up an access control barrier to any attempt to access the file system. Any program that tries to access a file after PARADOR has "BLOCKED" that same file will automatically be "FAIL SAFE". Parador PE also introduces several "LEARNING MODE" options which will allow you to receive all of the PARADOR information to help make the transition from legacy to PARADOR less abrupt for novice users. Parador File Protection PE for Unix/Windows Parador File Protection PE for Unix/Windows Description: Parador File Protection PE for Unix/Windows prevents "VIRAL ATTACKS" by building in file access control by default whenever a program is using any of the file system functions. PARADOR PE prevents damage to a file system after a virus has caused damage to a file system. PARADOR PE acts as a CONDUIT preventing any program from accessing a "PARADOR" type file. When Parador PE detects an attempt to access a file system it will "FAIL SAFE" that program by "BLOCKING" all access to that file system. If you are using a PARADOR OS that does not have file access protection enabled you will still have to manually allow access to a PARADOR type file. PARADOR PE will cause a "FAIL SAFE" condition on a program if that program tries to access your computer "directly" through any file operations. If the file system already contains a virus and Parador detects the attempt to access a particular file, it will "FAIL SAFE" the program if it is not recognized as an "official PARADOR" file type.
